

We commemorated 80 years since the start of World War 2 by looking at the events that happened in the village from 1939 to 1945 and also the journey for a villager – Billy Barlow - from his landing in Normandy in June 1944, shortly

Billy's original graves near where he was killed at the edge of a field of wheat after D-Day, until when in Vessem in September 1944, he was injured by a mortar shell and died there a few hours later.
